B P.D.

Dr. Sherman E. Lee, Director of the Cleveland Museum of Art, will be a guest of President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson at a reception in the White House Monday.

Dr. Lee's presence at the White House is occasioned by Mr. Johnson's public recognition of the vital role of the arts in American life. The President's position has led to this year's White House Festival of the Arts and calls leaders in the field of the arts and humanities in the United States to Washington for an evening of cultural expression. The Festival draws attention to the President's recent request to Congress to establish a National Foundation on the Arts and Humanities.
